Director's Message

Addressing the Issue of Label Claims for Pesticide in Spices: A Status Update

An important issue raised persistently by spice growers, and which is already causing much concern in the sector, is the legal status and regulatory limits of plant protection agents used in spices. The number of plant protection agents that currently have label claims for use in spices is less, and this severely limits the legal use of many effective pesticides in the cultivation of spices.

In India, label claims for pesticides to be used in agricultural commodities are assigned by the Central Insecticides Board and Registration Committee (CIBRC). Some previous engagements with CIBRC by individual research institutions have made it clear that only a concerted effort across the sector will be able to address this issue effectively. Accordingly, Spices Board launched a concerted effort with research institutions and pesticide industry associations to fast-track the submission of data to CIBRC.

These efforts have been covered in this column earlier, and I would now like to update the readers on the present status of work on this issue.

As informed earlier, Indian Institute of Spices Research (IISR), as the coordinator in spices sector for the All-India Coordinated Research Project on Pesticide Residues (AICRP) had offered to lead the effort of collating and evaluating the data already available with various research institutions. Accordingly, a brainstorming session on Label Claim Expansion for Spices was held on 18 April 2023 at IISR,

Dr A. B. Rema Shree
Director
Spices Board

Kozhikode. Invitees from various organizations including Spices Board, Directorate of Arecanut and Spices Development (DASD), Central Insecticides Board and Registration Committee (CIBRC), Food Safety and Standards Authority of India (FSSAI), ICAR-National Research Centre on Seed Spices (ICAR-NRCSS), All India Network Project on Pesticide Residues (AINP-PR), All India Coordinated Research Project on Spices (AICRPS) centers, World Spice Organization (WSO), and representatives from pesticide industries participated in the discussion conducted in hybrid mode.

During the meeting, Spices Board assured support for the analysis of residue data required for registering chemicals for label expansion. The pesticide manufacturers' associations agreed to share the format of the application for applying to CIBRC for label expansion. It was also decided to share the bio-efficacy and residue data of effective molecules with the association of pesticide manufacturers so that they may identify the molecules of their interest and help to fill the gaps in existing data and apply for label expansion.

It is expected that in the coming months we would be successful in finalizing a framework that can initiate the required data generation, which will hopefully result in at least a few important pesticides having label claims in spices in a couple of years.
